"This combines the approach for the two preceding vintages: '21 was mainly crushed fruit; '22 mainly carbonic; the constant - no new oak. The melange makes sense. The '22 was a delight for its exuberance and fragrance. This keeps those charming scents of red cherry, cranberry and rosehip, but there's a bit more density, with raspberry compote and redcurrant jelly, a sandy grip the connective tissue between fruit and finely trailing acidity"
